

Welcome to Central Oregon Irrigation District in partnership with Avion Water Company

Central Oregon Irrigation District (COID) is the surface irrigation water supplier for your property. COID has partnered with Avion Water Company for surface irrigation water delivery and billing.

Irrigation Water Use: Surface irrigation water is non-potable and is not suitable for domestic purposes including drinking, cooking, and bathing. It is to be used strictly for on-farm irrigation and stock water use. Your safety is our priority, so please use surface irrigation water appropriately.

Resources: Reviewing the COID Patron Handbook (scan the QR code below) is a great starting point for learning the ins and outs of surface irrigation water. It contains important information about water rights, responsibilities, and COID/Avion operations. You can also visit www.coid.org for additional resources and helpful information.

Delivery Support: COID delivers water through canals and ditches to a point of delivery (POD) at which Avion takes over and pumps the surface irrigation water to individual properties. Surface irrigation water is measured and delivered in gallons per minute (GPM) based on the properties allocation. There is not a specific pressure associated with surface irrigation water.

Office Assistance: For general questions on billing, water delivery, and other inquiries, please call Avion at 541-382-5342. For beneficial use and water right questions, please call COID at 541-548-6047. Our teams are happy to help!
